

1. worm-eating warbler-Helminthos vermivorus
2. 1
3. Five miles north of Rye, Pueblo Co. Colorado
4. May 11, 1973
5. 8:15 to 8:20 AM
6. While driving down the old Lake Isabel Rd. I noted a group of mtn. chickadees. While looking the flock over I noted a yellowish colored warbler with them. I then got a good look at the bird, it had a black striped crown, no wing bars, a light brown plain back and no tail spots. The yellow color confused me.
7. No voice heard.
8. Constant movement through the trees.
9. Habitat: Gen.-foothills
Spec.-Scrub oaks and ponderosa pine
10. Similar Species: None.
11. 10 to 20 ft. estimated
12. 7x35 Binoculars.
13. Sky-pcl. I moved to get the sun at my back
14. It was a life bird.
15. I knew it was the 2nd. area record.
16. No other observers.
17. Others agreed.
18. No Other observers,
19. I used Birds of N. America. The yellow confused me, so later I discussed the bird with Dave Griffiths and Steve Larson who had both seen them before. They said they had seen yellowish colored ones.
20. No photos.

Van A. Truan

Van A. Truan                      2510 Elizabeth
June 19, 1973                      Pueblo, Colorado 81003